Town of East Hampton Police Goes Live on TE2 on the Windows Azure Cloud

MELVILLE, NY, May 18, 2011: Total Computer is pleased to announce the Town of East Hampton Police Department (EHTPD) going live using Total Enforcement 2 (TE2) on the Cloud. The EHTPD, located on Long Island, NY, is fully embracing the paradigm shift towards Cloud computing. With Mayor Bloomberg's recent announcement of running NYC's Department of Information Technology and Telecommunications on the Cloud, more and more consumers are embracing this inevitable and exciting future.

Some of the compelling benefits the Azure platform has for Total Computer's customers include:

- Shorter sales cycle with the Software + Services (S+S) solution
- No upfront deployment costs and predictable monthly costs
- Instant provisioning as new customers can be deployed the same day
- Azure infrastructure can instantly scale up to meet customer usage requirement
- Excellent failover and redundancy for 100% uptime of the application
- Highly secure infrastructure that meets the stringent needs of law enforcement
- Removes the need for IT support resources at law enforcement organizations
- The solution is an operating expense item instead of a capital expense

Starting with this milestone that EHTPD has initiated by going on the Cloud, Total Computer anticipates an exponential growth market in the Microsoft Azure Cloud over the next few years.
